Q10. Education Minnesota believes in restoring fairness to the state tax code by raising revenue from the very wealthiest corporations and richest households and reducing the reliance on local levies to fund schools. What progressive, equitable ways to raise state revenue do you support?

I am uneducated on this question, but always agree raising money from the wealthy corporations is better as opposed to taxing the wage workers income, and I am not sure how much comes from things like cigarette sales, lottery , etc. But of that is a resource , I would agree with it..

Q15. What individual or system-level decisions in education do you believe are appropriate to make based on standardized test scores?

Not sure on all decisions that are made according to this data, other than determining class sizes maybe, materials used , one on one help , and grade level requirements

Q16. Most educators believe students should have access to a wide range of age-appropriate books that include relatable characters and situations that reflect the diversity of Minnesota families. However, certain politicians and big money groups are trying to remove books from school libraries across America, particularly books with LGBTQ+ characters or those that deal with racism in America. How should Minnesota protect its students' freedom to read?

First of all I do not agree with removing books period.. its 2026 & can't believe its even a thing, but unfortunately it is.. I dont know where to start other than advocate 1st amendment rights and make sure there are enough other people advocating and making a presence at school boards etc so these agendas aren't slipped in without a fight..

Q27. How would you support schools, educators and students in recovering from the trauma and financial impacts that Operation Metro Surge inflicted upon our state, especially BIPOC communities?

Start with not minimizing the situation, offer compassion and a public voice in the disaster it has caused, and advocate for counseling & safety programs that may be needed to help those affected.
