Yes

Q12. Efforts to address college affordability in the last two decades have resulted in 120% growth in the State Grant Program. Q1a. If yes: Which one? What were your observations from your visit? How will this experience inform your work as a legislator?

Lincoln Elementary School - ISD 728 (Elk River)

I thought the school was updated, clean and the people were great. My child (student) felt welcomed and supported.

Kids should feel welcomed, safe and secure at schools. Districts should have the means to improve lighting, entrances (security), classroom spaces and flex spaces for students.

Q10. Education Minnesota believes in restoring fairness to the state tax code by raising revenue from the very wealthiest corporations and richest households and reducing the reliance on local levies to fund schools. What progressive, equitable ways to raise state revenue do you support?

The State of Minnesota could easily dedicate tax codes on stock buybacks, CEO bonuses and the top 1 percent, and use that money to support the general funds for districts across the state. This would reduce the dependence on local levies and operating levies, and force Fortune 500 executives and shareholders to support public education in a new way.

Q15. What individual or system-level decisions in education do you believe are appropriate to make based on standardized test scores?

Standardized test scores can be somewhat effective in comparing year-to-year individual student growth, making it easier for students to be placed in proper classes if compared to classroom grades (i.e. Reading scores taken into account with Language Arts scores), but considerations also need to be made for those that struggle in a standardized testing setting and may be missing accommodations. Using standardized test scores for more than that, especially using them for teacher evaluation, isn't effective or appropriate.

Q16. Most educators believe students should have access to a wide range of age-appropriate books that include relatable characters and situations that reflect the diversity of Minnesota families. However, certain politicians and big money groups are trying to remove books from school libraries across America, particularly books with LGBTQ+ characters or those that deal with racism in America. How should Minnesota protect its students' freedom to read?

Districts should trust their librarians and curriculum specialists to provide reading materials for students. Parent groups and school board members - who have no expertise in reading curriculum - should not be in charge of approving books for libraries or classrooms.

Q27. How would you support schools, educators and students in recovering from the trauma and financial impacts that Operation Metro Surge inflicted upon our state, especially BIPOC communities?

We need to support mental health services access and trauma informed care, consider flexible learning option availability for students if/when they need support throughout recovery, and to enact policies/legislation to protect our schools, educators, and students in the event that we have a similar situation (or recurrence) arise.
